Computer giving you trouble?

I'm a qualified technician working on my own, so you deal with me the whole way through. You get the price in writing before I open anything. If it's not worth fixing, I'll tell you.

01

Repairs

- Won't switch on, or keeps restarting
- Blue screens and Windows problems
- Running hot or the fan is screaming
- Cracked screens, keyboards, charging ports
- Getting files off a dying drive

02

Upgrades

- An SSD — the biggest speed jump you can buy
- More RAM if it chokes with tabs open
- Graphics cards for games and rendering
- Power supplies and better cooling
- Motherboard swaps

03

New builds

- Gaming PCs built to your budget
- Office and home machines
- Editing and design work
- New and second-hand full systems
- Just parts advice if you're building it yourself

Quotes cost nothing

Tell me what it's doing, or what you want to spend and what you need it for. I'll price the parts and the labour. If buying new works out cheaper, I'll say so rather than take the repair job.

STEP 01

Bring it in

Drop it off, or I can fetch it if you're nearby.

STEP 02

I find the fault

Then I tell you what's wrong, without the jargon.

STEP 03

You decide

You get a written price. I don't start until you say go.

STEP 04

You get it back

Fixed, tested properly, and working when it leaves me.
